Not all paths to success are the same. As well as those who went straight to university, many of our graduates have taken equally inspiring routes. Some have proudly completed Swiss military service, while others have taken meaningful gap years to travel, volunteer and deepen their understanding of the world. A few have even returned to ISSH as interns, gaining valuable practical experience and contributing to our school community before embarking on their university studies. Whatever their path, we are incredibly proud of each student's unique journey and their commitment to building a bright future.
